

BUSINESS CONDUCT

Effective Date: October 1, 2017

SCHRA requires Board members, committee members, and employees to observe high standards of business and personal ethics in the conduct of their duties and responsibilities, and all directors, committee members, and employees to comply with all applicable laws and regulatory requirements. Unethical actions, or the appearance of unethical actions, are unacceptable under any conditions. The policies and reputation of SCHRA depend to a very large extent on the following considerations.

Each employee must apply her or his own sense of personal ethics, which should extend beyond compliance with applicable laws and regulations in business situations, to govern behavior where no existing regulation provides a guideline. Each employee is responsible for applying common sense in business decisions where specific rules do not provide all the answers.

In determining compliance with this standard in specific situations, employees should ask themselves the following questions:

1. Is my action legal?
2. Is my action ethical?
3. Does my action comply with SCHRA policy?
4. Am I sure my action does not appear inappropriate?
5. Am I sure that I would not be embarrassed or compromised if my action became known within the Agency or publicly?
6. Am I sure that my action meets my personal code of ethics and behavior?
7. Would I feel comfortable defending my actions on the 6 o'clock news?

Each employee should be able to answer "yes" to all of these questions before taking action.

Each director, manager, and supervisor is responsible for the ethical business behavior of her or his subordinates. Directors, managers, and supervisors must carefully weigh all courses of action suggested in ethical, as well as economic, terms and base their final decisions on the guidelines provided by this policy, as well as their personal sense of right and wrong.

SCHRA does not tolerate the willful violation or circumvention of any federal, state, local, or foreign law by an employee during the course of that person's employment, the disregard or circumvention of SCHRA policy or engagement in unscrupulous dealings, the attempt to accomplish by indirect means, through agents or intermediaries, that which is directly forbidden.

I hereby acknowledge review, receipt and understanding of the SCHRA Business Conduct Policy, above.
